Experience

Marisa Livesay is Senior Counsel to the firm and a member of the firm's Business Litigation Group. She focuses on antitrust and unfair competition issues.

Prior to joining the firm, Marisa developed extensive experience litigating a wide range of complex class actions at both the state and federal court level. She successfully litigated matters involving antitrust, wage and hour, unfair and deceptive practices, and unlawful taxation claims. She has also represented institutional investors, including public and labor pension funds, who suffered losses due to corporate fraud in securities and derivative litigation. Marisa has expertise in all stages of litigation, including drafting pleadings and dispositive motions, overseeing all aspects of complex discovery, as well as handling trial preparation and mediations.
